HICKMAN MILLS JROTC CONTINUES MARINE HOLIDAY TRADITION

For the past several weekends, the Hickman Mills High School Marine Corps JROTC has been helping the Marine Corps Reserve with this year's 'Toys for Tots' collection. Hickman Mills cadets have been sorting through a myriad of dolls, trucks, board games and train sets donated by people in the Kansas City area for children who would not have a Christmas without their generosity.

"I am amazed at the energy and enthusiasm the cadets displayed while organizing the toys," said Sgt Jared Hammond of the 24th Marine Regiment where the JROTC students have been volunteering.

Next for the cadets-- bagging the toys for delivery to pre-selected agencies throughout the metropolitan area. While the Hickman Mills JROTC have been volunteering and working for 'Toys for Tots' for several weeks, the Marine Corps Reserve has been collecting toys nationwide since 1947.
